JACK JOHNSON GUILTY OF MANN LAW VIOLATION

Negro Convicted in Chicago Federal Court on All Seven Counts of Indictment.

[By Associated Press.] Chicago, May 15.—Jack Johnson, champion heavyweight fighter, was found guilty of violating the Federal white slave law in transporting Belle Schrieber from Pittsburgh to Chicago in 1910. He was convicted on all seven counts in the indictment. The jury returned its verdict after an hour's consideration.

Taking of testimony was ended Wednesday after the prize fighter had taken the stand in his own behalf and denied the statement of the Schrieber woman that he had paid for her transportation.

Johnson admitted on the stand that he had sent the woman money in response to her request by telephone, but denied he had made any stipulation that she should use it to come to Chicago.

The maximum penalty under the finding is five years' imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both.

A motion of Assistant District Attorney Parkin that Johnson be ordered confined in the county jail was overruled by Judge Carpenter, and the negro was released on bond of $10,000. A motion for a new trial was filed at once and arguments on the motion were set for May 19.

Lucile Cameron Johnson, his present white wife, did not appear in the courtroom at any time.
